REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 31, 1915

To His Excellency, Edward F. Dunne
Governor of the State of Illinois, Springfield, Illinois:

SIR: In accordance with the provisions of the Act entitled: "An Act to encourage and promote the establishment of free public libraries in cities, villages, and towns in this State" (Illinois), approved June 17, 1891, under which this corporation is organized, the Trustees of The Newberry Library herewith transmit their twenty-fourth annual report of the history and operations of the Library for the year 1915.

No changes in the Board of Trustees have occurred since the date of our last report.

The Annual Report of the Librarian, appended hereto, contains the statistics of the Library for the past year, including those of general administration, accessions, attendance, etc., together with the names of donors and the number of their respective gifts. It shows a continued increase in the number of books issued, and steadily growing usefulness of the collection to scholars and the general public. In addition to the acknowledgments which have been officially made to the several donors to the Library, the Trustees desire, in this report, to express their appreciation of the thoughtfulness that has been of such benefit to this institution.

The comparatively small number of books added to the Library during 1915 was due in large measure to the fact that few orders could be placed for works published in continental European countries because of circumstances and difficulties arising from the present War.

A statement of the assets of The Newberry Library on December 31, 1915, with the real estate; also the expenditures for books, pamphlets, maps, and fittings of the Library, from its foundation to date, will be found as an appendix to this report.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD L. RYERSON, President

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

To the Board of Trustees of The Newberry Library:

GENTLEMEN: Herewith I beg to submit the twenty-ninth annual report of the Librarian and the seventh which it has been my privilege to make. The statistical summaries given in the text of the Report and in its several appendices are taken from the official records currently kept by the assistants and presented to me formally at the end of the year by the heads of departments.

BOOK SELECTION AND ACQUISITION

Under the general instructions or specific direction of the Committee on Books, over 11,000 titles have been studied and investigated. The research involved in this work is directed to the following ends: (1) to learn whether or not a given title or edition is already in the Library; (2) if it is not in the Library, to ascertain from bibliographical and other authoritative sources whether its importance is such as to warrant its acquisition; (3) if found desirable for addition to the Library, to list it accurately under full author, title, date and place of publication, and submit it with others of a similar character to the Committee on Books for final consideration before ordering. Of the 11,000 titles investigated, some 2,500 or about 23 per cent were found to be clearly within the special scope of the Library and appropriate to be added to our present collections. These 2,500 titles have been submitted to the Committee in forty-eight typewritten lists, and all save two have been approved and ordered purchased.

The chief printed sources whence a majority of these approved titles were derived were the bibliographies which, as a part of our routine work, we are systematically examining and checking, volume by volume, e.g., those in the Cambridge History of English Literature, the Cambridge Medieval History, The American Nation, edited by Albert Bushnell Hart, and other works. The titles whose original suggestion comes from these sources have their value and importance further confirmed or disproved by reference to other authorities mentioning or evaluating them, e.g., the Dictionary of National Biography, Larned's Literature of American History, Gross's Sources and Literature of British History, Potthast, Dahlmann-Waitz, and scores of other special bibliographies, biographies, or historical or literary monographs, the authors of which have tested and found such titles to be source material of permanent utility to the scholar. The assistants engaged in this work are instructed to take nothing for granted in such matters and always to reinforce any special or trained knowledge of their own with the weight of some widely known special authority whose word is, for the moment, being accepted as final and decisive.

Dealers' catalogues have been read assiduously and checked by Messrs. Martin, Carpenter, and McLaughlin of the Committee on Books and scores of titles recommended by them have been duly acquired. We are also indebted to Professor A. C. L. Brown, Ph.D., of Northwestern University, for constant advice and assistance in developing our collections relating to the languages and literatures of the Celtic peoples. The subjects and topics of the principal lists of books approved and ordered were: (1) American and English political pamphlets of the period of the American Revolution; (2) Official publications of American State Constitutional Conventions; (3) Publications of American historical societies and printing clubs; (4) American history, general, 1776–1811; (5) American Local and Family History; (6) British and American historical and literary biography; (7) Archaeology and history of early and Roman Britain; (8) Works of 17th-Century English antiquarian, historical, and political writers; (9) Italian, French, and Spanish authors of the 14th, 15th, and 16th centuries whose writings influenced or inspired contemporary and later English writers; (10) Works of English poets and collections of poetical miscellanies of the 17th and 18th centuries; (11) Collected critical editions of Shakespeare's works, chiefly 18th- and early 19th-Century editions; (12) Works by or about John Milton, John Bunyan, and Andrew Marvel supplementary to previously acquired material relating to these authors; (13) Folk-Lore and Folk Literature; (14) Geographical and Historical Atlases and Dictionaries; (15) New or recent publications on most of the subjects within the special scope of the Library, including Music, the Fine Arts, Philosophy, Religion, etc. In illustration of the character of our more important acquisitions a selected list of recent purchases is presented elsewhere in this Report.

The printed material purchased for the Edward E. Ayer Collection included 150 volumes, 186 pamphlets, 15 leaflets, 5 broadsides, and 1 broadsheet, a total of 357 pieces. The more important of the printed books were acquisitions made with a view to completing or strengthening already well-developed sections of the Collection. Nine of the annual sermons preached before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts were secured, thus making the Ayer set complete to the year 1800 with the exception of the sermon preached in 1799. Among other acquisitions were: editions of Apianus (Venice, 1535), Las Casas (Amsterdam, 1621), Herrera y Tordesilla (Madrid, 1601), and Patrick Gass (Philadelphia, 1811); four narratives of Indian captivities; and various reports and papers concerning the Hudson's Bay Company, 1849–1869. Eighty-two imprints of versions of the Bible or parts of the Bible translated into the languages of the Philippine Islands were secured from the British and Foreign Bible Society. Two important dictionaries of Indian languages were also added, viz., Antonio Morvillo's Dictionary of the Numipu or Nez Perce Language (St. Ignatius, 1895), and Rudolphe Petter's English-Cheyenne Dictionary (Kettle Falls, Washington, 1913–1915). The manuscript additions included further transcripts from the Archives of the Indies in Seville, Spain, among them being: (1) Early Florida documents concerning Esteban de las Alas, 1571; (2) Documents relating to the expulsion of the Spaniards from

New Mexico in 1680; (3) an "Expediente" on the establishment of the English in Georgia, 1736–1742; (4) Reports from Cuba and Louisiana, 1776–1777, in which the progress of the American Revolution is commented upon. There were also acquired eleven volumes numbering 1,608 pages of blueprints made from typewritten copies of documents in the Cuban Archives. These relate mostly to Florida and Louisiana and, among other important papers, comprise three letter books of Bernardo de Galvez. A noteworthy addition to the Ptolemy Collection was an abridged manuscript translation into German of the Cosmographia, dated 1502. Another interesting acquisition was the original manuscript of J. C. Riddle's History of the Modoc War.

Two notable gifts of the year were made by the Friday Club. Through the generosity of this distinguished group of Chicago women we received a perfect set of the five hundred and fifty-five original numbers of The Spectator, by Joseph Addison and Sir Richard Steele, from March 1, 1711, to December 6, 1712. The set is magnificently bound in two volumes, small folio, in full crushed levant morocco by Robert Riviere & Son, of London. It makes a splendid addition to the lengthening series of original editions of the great monuments of English literature which the Library is gradually acquiring and distinctly enhances the repute and prestige of our collections on this subject. The Friday Club also presented a beautiful copy of La Fontaine's Contes et Nouvelles en Vers in the famous "Fermiers Généraux" edition of 1762, one of the most beautifully illustrated books of the 18th century. It contains some eighty-five plates by the greatest French artists and engravers of the period, and is one of the classic pieces in the development of engraving and book illustration.

Another gift of great interest and value was the original manuscript score of Edward Alexander MacDowell's composition entitled "Erstes Concert (in A moll) für das pianoforte mit begleitung des orchesters . . . Op. 15, partitur & stimmen. (n.p. 1882.)" This fine manuscript of one of the works of the great American composer was presented to the Library by his widow, Mrs. E. A. MacDowell.

A second consignment of directories of American cities, numbering 100 volumes, was received on deposit from the Chicago Public Library in May. A complete list of all the directories included in this deposit was made and copies were filed for record in both the institutions concerned.

PUBLIC SERVICE AND USE

Attendance.—The Library was open 308 days. The total number of visitors, or, if a circumlocution be preferred, the total number of visits made by the public with the object of utilizing the resources of the Library for a given purpose was 73,615, an increase of 1,800 over the year 1914. Of this total, 53,355 were made between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M., and 20,260 between 5:00 P.M. and 10:00 P.M. The average daily attendance was 239; the highest attendance on any one day was 412 (January 9), and the lowest was 92 (December 24).

Use of books.—The total number of books, pamphlets, manuscripts, etc., called for or issued in the course of supplying the information or material desired by readers was 132,396, an increase of 10,128 over the year 1914. Of these, 101,382 were used during the daytime and 31,014 during the evening hours. The average daily issue of books was 429; the highest number issued on any one day was 728 (November 13), and the smallest was 142 (December 24).

Inter-library loans.—Twenty-six applications were received from other libraries asking for the loan of some forty-seven volumes. These requests came from institutions in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, and New York. It was found possible to grant seven of these requests without militating against the legitimate interests of local students, and thirteen volumes were lent to the following libraries: Chicago Historical Society, for photographic purposes (2), the John Crerar Library, for photographic purposes (1), Duluth Public Library (7), University of Illinois Library (2), Minneapolis Public Library (1), Missionary Research Library, New York City (1). All the books were returned promptly and in good condition.

Exhibitions.—The most important exhibition of the year was one designed to illustrate the history and development of the Art of Gardening, a topic in which there appears to be a well-defined and permanent interest. The material shown, both printed and graphic, was all taken from the collections in the possession of the Library. It included facsimiles of ancient manuscripts; early copies of Herbals in various languages; early English books on the laying out of gardens and the cultivation of plants in the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries, together with quotations and translations from classical, English, and other authors whose writings influenced English designers of gardens and landscape artists generally; color prints and old engravings of famous gardens. Every book in the exhibition was in itself interesting for some special quality, such as rarity, literary interest, former ownership or association, printer, place of publication, age, etc. The interest of a considerable number of intelligent amateurs was attracted and the exhibition as a whole received appreciative commendation from such an authority as Dr. W. Miller, professor of Landscape Horticulture in the University of Illinois.

Publications.—The following publications were issued during the year 1915:

(1) Annual Report of the Trustees for 1914. 50 pages. Printed from type. 1,000 copies.

(2) Selected List of Books and Manuscripts purchased since January, 1910. 34 pages. Multigraphed. (Bulletin Number 3.) 250 copies.

(3) A List of Documentary Material Relating to State Constitutional Conventions, 1776–1912. Compiled by A. H. Shearer, Ph.D. 37 pages. Multigraphed. (Bulletin Number 4.) 300 copies.

(4) Staff Directory of The Newberry Library. Educational Qualifications, Suggested Reading and Study. 33 pages. Multigraphed. 200 copies.

(5) Same. Revised to October 1, 1915. 36 pages. Multigraphed. 150 copies.

(6) Subjects represented in the Ayer Collection of Americana with class numbers of corresponding topics in other departments of The Newberry Library. 4 pages. Multigraphed. 50 copies.

TECHNICAL WORK AND PROCESSES

Under this heading are included all the special processes through which a book must be passed before it may properly be placed on the shelves ready for use and consultation. It comprises all the operations which have to do with the receiving, checking, recording, classifying, cataloguing, marking, counting, and binding of the material acquired by the Library. As I have pointed out in previous Reports, the quantitative output of the divisions of the service engaged in this work, that is, the actual number of books, etc., passed through the above processes, is conditioned absolutely by the extent to which any of the following elements are operative: (1) Unusual difficulty in determining exact identity of author, correct bibliographical description of a particular edition, or the most appropriate classification of a book. These difficulties are an almost constant factor in the cataloguing of books printed prior to 1800. (2) The extent to which certain "collective" works require "analytical entries" in the Author and Subject Catalogues in order to avoid possible duplication of purchases as well as to reveal the resources of the Library more completely. (3) The percentage of books in foreign languages. (4) The extent to which the daily work of the division is interrupted or halted by reason of illness, leave of absence, vacations, substitute service in other departments, or resignations. (5) The time expended in instructing untrained assistants when experienced ones cannot be secured. A survey of the year's activities shows that all of these elements have been markedly present in the work and that the 1st and 4th have been especially noticeable.

Inasmuch as no large orders for books were placed in the countries of Continental Europe during 1915, the number of volumes acquired through purchase was somewhat less than usual. The majority of the new accessions came from orders placed in this country and Great Britain. The total number of new volumes added to the shelves was 5,490. This figure includes about 1,000 volumes received during the latter part of 1914 and catalogued during 1915.

Of 2,524 new titles (4,621 volumes) treated by the Author Catalogue division, over 33 per cent were in foreign languages. The printed cards of the Library of Congress and other institutions were procurable for only 569 of these titles; 1,955 required original cataloguing by our own staff, and of these 25 per cent were in foreign languages. Further, it may be of interest to note that of these 1,955 titles, 800 or nearly 41 per cent were of books printed before 1820. The distribution of these titles by centuries was as follows:

Titles of books printed up to 1499 A.D.	3
Titles of books printed from 1500 to 1599 A.D.	140
Titles of books printed from 1600 to 1699 A.D.	257
Titles of books printed from 1700 to 1799 A.D.	314
Titles of books printed from 1800 to 1820 A.D.	86
Total	800

Needless to say, the cataloguing of these titles presented numerous bibliographical difficulties, and in a large number of instances prolonged and minute investigation of their origin and literary history was necessary before final and accurate catalogue descriptions of them could be drafted. The study, care, and knowledge required for the correct bibliographical or catalogue description of such material is, mutatis mutandis, analogous to that of the archaeologist, the botanist, or the biologist who identifies, classifies, describes, and prepares appropriate catalogue descriptions of the remains of antiquity and of the selected specimens of the world's flora and fauna displayed and arranged in scientific order in our natural history and other museums. In spite of their superficial physical resemblances, individual books and other forms of printed material present an infinite variety of differences and dissimilarities. Until this fundamental fact is thoroughly grasped, the complicated nature of library cataloguing and its basic relation to the principal purposes for which the library exists can never be properly understood.

Card copy prepared by the cataloguers for 2,559 titles was printed on the multigraph printing machine installed in the Bindery. This was an increase of 1,382 titles over those so printed in 1914. For insertion in the several library catalogues, 16,297 copies of these cards were used. Additional copies were struck off and presented to other libraries in response to their request for them, on the ground that a knowledge of the books acquired by The Newberry Library would be of distinct service and value to scholars not in our immediate vicinity. The institutions to which copies of our multigraphed cards are thus being sent are: (1) The Library of Congress (two copies of each card); (2) the Library of the University of California; (3) the Library of Northwestern University. Mr. C. H. Hastings, Chief of the Card Division in the Library of Congress, wrote us last February: "I am pleased to learn that you will hereafter supply us with two copies of each multigraph card which you turn out. . . . . The form and execution of the cards which you sent seem to be first class." Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, Librarian of Northwestern University, writes of them: "The cards arrived last Saturday. It seems to me that they are very handsome in appearance and are unusually clear. It seems to me that as far as we are concerned no cards are as valuable for our purposes as those of The Newberry Library, especially if we might look forward to the time when we could have practically a duplicate catalogue of your collection."

The "current accessions" handled by the Author Catalogue division during 1915 amounted to 4,621 volumes, for which 11,016 cards were prepared for the Official Author Catalogue and 10,825 duplicate cards for the new Public Author Catalogue. The number of necessary "analytical" entries, equal in importance to independent titles, was 450.

The paragraphs that follow summarize the work done for and the additions made to the various catalogues and indices now being currently prepared and maintained. These instruments constitute the chief aids daily used by the public and the library assistants in revealing the resources of the Library and furthering the literary, historical, and other studies and investigations of those who resort to it.

Official Author Catalogue.—This catalogue contains an estimated total of 218,042 cards. During 1915, new cards to the number of 16,395 were added to it, and 1,366 cards were for various reasons deducted from it. In connection with processes of revision, correction, or improvement in the light of new knowledge or more modern methods and materials, 12,122 old cards, made many years ago, were re-filed or new ones substituted for them. Among these changes were the substitution of 9,761 printed or typewritten cards for the older manuscript ones; and the correction or improvement of 852 author headings as a result of new information coming to light regarding them. Thus, the filing and re-filing of cards for this catalogue involved the handling and accurate alphabetic arrangement of 28,517 cards.

*Public Author Catalogue.—The amount of finished and completed work accomplished by the "recataloguing staff" in 1915 reached a total of 30,158 volumes and 2,924 "analyticals." For the titles represented by these volumes, 27,651 cards were prepared. From the very comprehensive annual report of Mr. L. R. Blanchard, Head of the Department, I extract the following facts concerning the work done under his direction for this catalogue.

The new Public Author Catalogue at present consists of five catalogue cases with the cards distributed through 440 trays. Its total contents on December 31, 1915, may be represented as follows:

Titles	Analyticals	Cross-References	Cards	Volumes
93,805	18,157	19,047	144,168	148,141

A careful survey has been made of the general situation with a view to estimating the amount of work still to be done under

* The recataloguing, for inclusion in this catalogue, of the major portion of the contents of the Library acquired prior to June 17, 1911, is being done by an extra group of workers designated for administrative purposes as "the recataloguing staff."

the head of "recataloguing." The following results have been obtained and they are believed to be substantially accurate so far as the facts within our present knowledge indicate:

Volumes in Library December 31, 1915		358,028
Volumes in Special Collections having their own catalogues, or for other reasons not included in the "recataloguing" operations	120,256
Volumes already fully recatalogued	115,005
		235,261
Balance		122,767
Volumes partially recatalogued, cards awaiting final revision		35,120
Volumes still to be fully recatalogued		87,647

Library of Congress "proof-slip" catalogue.—This catalogue consists of "proof-sheet" copy of the printed cards for all books catalogued or recatalogued by the Library of Congress since January 1, 1910, cut to standard size and filed alphabetically by the names of authors. Since its establishment in 1910 we have come to regard this "proof-sheet" catalogue of the National Library as an indispensable bibliographical and cataloguing tool of the greatest value and usefulness. It is a dependable source of a vast amount of information needed both by the public and by the cataloguers, which apparently cannot be found readily in any other place. From it we ascertain among other things: (1) for which of our new accessions Library of Congress printed cards may be secured; (2) standard or best forms of author and title entry for catalogue use as decided upon by the National Library; (3) full and correct names of authors, especially those whose names do not yet appear in the current biographical encyclopaedias, etc.; (4) details of place of publication, name of publisher, the price of hundreds of copyrighted books which are not recorded in the regular trade bibliographies. Inasmuch as we are now following in our cataloguing procedure the same code of rules as that used by the Catalogue Department of the Library of Congress, the cards illustrate the application of these rules and furnish us models of actual practice in many doubtful or difficult cases. We are thus saved the time which would be consumed by our cataloguers in studying out and solving these cases independently. This Library of Congress "proof-slip" catalogue now numbers over 273,678 author entry slips and may be expected to grow at the rate of about 45,000 annually. For convenience of reference there have been combined with these Library of Congress proof-slips, 10,734 printed cards for books in the Library of Harvard University, 3,122 for books in the Library of the University of Chicago, and 619 for books in the Library of the University of California. This is our nearest approach to the possession of the type of "Union Catalogue" which has recently become so popular a feature in the large libraries of America. My reasons for not instituting here a similar instrument on the scale maintained by other libraries of the size and character of The Newberry Library are based on the fact that three neighboring institutions (the University of Chicago Library, the John Crerar Library, and the Northwestern University Library) have already established and are currently maintaining these comprehensive Union Catalogues and it is not yet apparent to me that a fourth is necessary in or near Chicago.

The following table shows the number and cost of all printed cards purchased from the Library of Congress for all purposes of known present and future use since January 1, 1910:

Totals by Years	Titles	Cards	Cost
1910	12,306	78,576	$ 715.26
1911	9,024	53,591	584.19
1912	4,158	22,519	211.96
1913	8,882	41,265	446.85
1914	7,946	37,837	417.64
1915	6,897	26,281	310.93
Totals	49,283	260,069	$2,686.83

In his report for 1905, Dr. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress, said: "The saving to a library by the purchase of our cards over the cost of cataloguing independently the books which they represent and printing or otherwise manifolding them is estimated to be from four to seven times the price they pay us."

Official Name List.—A full description of this necessary instrument of service has been given in previous reports and need not be repeated here. During 1915 cards to the number of 15,401 were added to it, making a total of 67,722 entries, recording once for all the official form of authors' names and headings to be used in the catalogues of this Library, together with reference to the authorities upon which our decisions have been based.*

Classed Subject Catalogue.—Mr. W. S. Merrill, Head of the division which assigns all books to their appropriate groups in our system of classification, determines their "call-numbers," and carries out all the processes having to do with the arrangement and up-keep of the Classed Subject Catalogue, reports that 4,244 volumes were thus treated for the permanent collections of the Library. His division also performed a large number of subsidiary duties in connection both with this work and on volumes which it is not our intention to shelve permanently or catalogue exhaustively. As I reported last year, the use of "expansive indexer books" to contain the entries for this catalogue was discontinued on April 1, 1914. Its physical form is now the same as that of the other principal catalogues, viz., standard-sized cards filed on rods in the trays of a card cabinet. To this Classed Subject Catalogue, which adjoins the Public Author Catalogue in the Main Reading-Room, 12,819 new cards and 2,841 guides have been added. To the divisional Subject Catalogues, the additions were: in the History Department,

* "A system of bibliographical description, which will harmonize and range with biography and other subjects of a similar kind, is that which must commend itself as the most natural, reasonable, scientific, and, in the end, the simplest and most practical. Unless good biographical dictionaries and similar works of reference are taken as the chief standards for author entries, there will never be any improvement or uniformity in bibliographical and cataloguing methods."—J. D. Brown, Manual of Practical Bibliography, p. 57.

3,478 cards and 1,650 guides; in the Arts and Letters Department, 4,610 cards and 1,369 guides. The grand total of cards and guides filed and arranged during 1915 in these catalogues was 20,907 and 5,860 respectively.

Alphabetical Index to the Subject Catalogue.—This index, also in card form, is placed with the catalogues in the Main Reading-Room and enables a reader to tell at a glance whether or not the Library possesses books on a particular subject and where in the Classed Subject Catalogue the titles of such books may be found. Index cards to the number of 2,326 were added to it during the year, and it now contains a total of 31,077 subject headings arranged alphabetically.

Genealogical Index.—During 1915, 11,521 entries, typed in previous years, were mounted on cardboard, cut, sorted, and inserted in their proper places in the volumes of this Index. It now comprises 1,190 folio volumes, containing a grand total of 683,431 entries, each entry giving one or more direct references to material on the shelves of the Library.

Periodicals.—At the close of the year, 916 periodicals were being currently received. Of these, 582 are purchased, 203 are presented by individuals or the publishers, and 131 are deposited by the United States government. Excluding the government publications, 496 of these periodicals are in the English language and 289 are in foreign languages. Although from time to time some delay is experienced in receiving the periodicals printed in belligerent countries of Europe, we have been extremely fortunate in keeping our files substantially complete of all those which have not suspended publication.

BOOKBINDING AND REPAIRING

The operations associated with the binding and repairing of the literary property of the Library fall into two distinct groups. One comprises the details connected with the designation of the nature and kind of binding to be put on books received unbound, the assembling of the requisite parts and numbers of periodical publications, the withdrawal of worn or broken volumes from the shelves for necessary repairs, etc., the delivery to and receipt of this material from the Bindery, and the keeping of systematic record of these facts. These operations are performed by the Department of Accessions and Classification.

The Bindery proper deals exclusively with the second group of details connected with the binding, i.e., those having to do with the technical treatment of a book by the binders from the time of its receipt in an unbound condition until its return, newly bound or repaired, to the library assistants. In the Bindery it is collated, assembled by signatures, sewn, bound in cloth, leather, pigskin, or board cover, gilded, stamped, labeled, etc. These operations are of course performed by skilled artisans under the direction of an experienced chief.

A total of 7,783 volumes and pamphlets were newly bound during 1915. Of these, 4,944 were bound in cloth, 2,297 in half-morocco, 77 in pigskin, and 465 in plain boards with cloth backs. Besides this new work, 1,217 volumes, worn or damaged through use, were repaired, relettered, etc. The paper label bearing the seal of the Library as a mark of ownership was pasted on the inside front cover of 12,615 volumes. Of the material sent to the Bindery for treatment, 1,845 volumes were individual books acquired prior to 1915, 888 were from the Bonaparte Collection, 511 were acquisitions of the year 1915, 901 were current serials, and 383 were pieces of sheet music hitherto kept in boxes. In connection with the binding of the books, 19,207 illustrative plates were "guarded," and 1,052 maps mounted.

Owing to conditions arising out of the Great War, we have been unable to replenish certain portions of our stock of leathers and cloth used in binding. Our stock of imported English imperial cloth is nearly exhausted in the red, maroon, and brown colors, and the manufacturers cannot at present fill orders for the material in these colors. Consequently we are using a high-grade Holliston library buckram to match sets previously bound in the imported cloth. The first quality morocco leather which we have been accustomed to import from Germany is of course no longer obtainable. Our stock of this in maroon color is entirely exhausted and we are using cloth of a corresponding color in binding current volumes of sets previously bound in leather. We endeavored, but without success, to secure a Turkey morocco in the maroon color; the other colors do not match our former stock.

The Head of the Bindery also supervises all the work done on the multigraph, and he has largely contributed to the marked success with which this printing machine has been adapted and adjusted to our peculiar needs. Besides the 950 copies of the pamphlet publications mentioned on pp. 18–19, a total of over 51,000 multigraphed catalogue cards and guide cards have been printed. In addition, 46,000 readers' application slips for books, and 42,475 copies of business, report, and record forms used in the routine work of the Library were also printed in this way. On the cutting and punching machines, 65,000 blank catalogue cards and 70,000 manila slips used for temporary and memorandum purposes were cut and punched as required. Every division and phase of our work feels the benefit of the varied activities carried on in the Bindery under its present efficient direction.

LIBRARIAN'S OFFICE

The general administration of the Library is, of course, directed from this office, but in addition a large number of activities also center here which in many other institutions are otherwise allocated. In the course of a year, the business, clerical and bibliographical work done by the assistants directly associated with the activities of this division of the service amounts to a very considerable total. These activities comprise, in part, all details connected with book selection, preparation for ordering, and maintenance of the card catalogue of outstanding and received orders; the comparison of all purchased books with their invoices and the original orders, and the certification of their correctness; the receipt of all gifts and designation of the disposition to be made of them; the storage, oversight, and distribution of all library supplies; the conduct of all official correspondence not falling within the province of the Business Office; the mailing and distribution of all Library publications; the writing, filing, checking, and re-filing of thousands of cards for the order catalogue; decisions regarding inter-library loans; record of multigraph operations, and numerous other matters of greater or less importance but all essential to the well-being and orderly management of the institution. No statistical statement can be made which adequately presents the results of all this activity, but record of it is made here as a matter of justice to the assistants engaged in it, since their labors are not otherwise fully represented in these Annual Reports.

THE LIBRARY STAFF

On April 20, 1915, the Library suffered a serious loss in the death of Miss Luella M. Sloan, Ph.B., chief reviser in the Author Catalogue Division, who had been a member of the staff for nine years. She brought to her work an unusually quick and comprehensive mind. Applying herself with marked concentration and ability to the problems of cataloguing, she became so proficient that, at the time of her death, she was not only supervising the work of her juniors in the Catalogue Division, but was constantly engaged also in solving bibliographical and literary problems brought to her by members of other departments. Her loyalty to the institution was such that she had been known to work for many hours beyond what was officially required of her in order to finish a piece of work which she knew would be of value to the Library, but which she could not find time to do amid the pressing duties of her regular hours of service. Her personal influence invariably made for harmony, and her unswerving devotion to duty set an example not without effect on younger associates. With her passing the Library lost a most accomplished and loyal assistant. Miss Sloan was a graduate of the University of Chicago and a member of the American Library Association.

Eight resignations have been presented during the year, one from the Reference Division, two from the Author Catalogue Division, and five from the Recataloguing Staff. Two were due to the acceptance of more attractive positions in other libraries, and five to the desire of the persons concerned to resume their studies in school or college. Miss Sloan's position was filled by the promotion of Miss F. A. Noyes, A.B., and other vacancies in the Author Catalogue Division were filled by the transfer of Miss R. Balch and Miss H. A. Fowler, B.L., from the Recataloguing Staff to the Classified Staff, by the return to our service of Miss M. I. Stearns who had resigned in 1914 to become head cataloguer in the Public Library of Duluth, Minnesota, and by the appointment of Miss G. Gunderson, Ph.B. Thus at the end of the year, Miss Noyes was the only member of the Author Catalogue Division who had also been a member of it at the beginning of the year. Service conditions required the drafting of members of this division as substitutes in the Reference Division for an amount of time equivalent to 79 working days, and the time lost due to illness was equal to 82 working days. In the face of such vicissitudes it is remarkable that the division accomplished the work it did. The resignations, transfers, new appointments, and absences due to illness among members of the Recataloguing Staff were scarcely less disrupting.

The Library was represented at the annual meeting of the American Library Association at Berkeley, California, in June, by Miss R. Balch and a paper by Mr. W. S. Merrill dealing with his recommendations for a "Code for Classifiers" was read before the Catalogue Section of this Conference. Dr. A. H. Shearer represented the Library at the annual meeting of the American Historical Association, in Washington, during December, where he was appointed a member of the Committee on Bibliography and reappointed Secretary of the Conference of Historical Societies. Through his participation in the activities of these organizations, it is hoped to keep The Newberry Library in close touch with historical scholarship and investigation throughout the country.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

W. N. C. Carlton, Librarian
